

Reflections on Situated Cognition

Discussion of Advanced PhD Projects & Career Prospects
November 6 and 7 · Osnabrück University

In this final workshop of our RTG, we want to reflect upon the past, present, and future of situated cognition in light of the work of our third and final cohort of PhD students. Insights from trending research relating to situated cognition are provided by our three keynote speakers: Mar Rus-Calafell, Cristina Borgoni and Joshua Shepherd. Additionally, we will have three discussion sessions in which we discuss the work of our PhD students with our guests, aiming to provide feedback to each PhD student to support the final steps toward their project completion. A dedicated panel discussion also opens the floor for exchange on the options and challenges presented by an academic career path.
